DETAILED ACTION

This action responds to the Election filed 13 January 2005.

Election/Restrictions

1. While Applicant's election of the invention of Group II, claims 1-24 and 36-63, without traverse is noted, this application contains plural inventions and species claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

II-A. Claims 1-24 and 36-39, drawn to a method of forming carbon nanotubes in a porous material, classified in class 427, subclass 577 or 590.

II-B. Claims 39-63, drawn to a method of forming a metal coating, embedding carbon nanotubes during a liquid-phase plating process, classified in class 205, subclass 109 or 114.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

3. Inventions II-A and II-B are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have, inter alia, different modes of operation: II-A grows carbon nanotubes in a porous material (e.g. metal oxide) after formation of the porous matrix while II-B embeds carbon nanotubes during the plating of a metal.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Both inventions of the Groups II-A and II-B additionally contain claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

1. Method of forming a composite carbon nanotube material attached to a substrate.
2. Method of forming a free-standing composite carbon nanotube material.
3. Method of attaching a composite carbon nanotube material to a different substrate from that on which it is formed.

In addition to the election of either II-A or II-B, Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

In this regard, note that subcombinations are not generic to the combination using the subcombination. (See MPEP 806.04(c).) Accordingly, the addition of steps or features (as indicated by language such as “further comprising” in a dependent claim) creates a subcombination-combination relationship, preventing the independent claim from being generic. Note further that for a claim to be generic it should recite all features (further defined by the dependent claims) in generic form. (See MPEP 806.04(d).)

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

7. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
